COUNCIL REJECTS DIKE PROPOSITION

Mayor Cook Declares Plans Will Not Benefit Best Part of the City.

At the meeting of the East St. Louis Ity Council yesterday a proposition made by unnamed St. Louis persons, but which was promoted in East St. Louis by Ecgene Sweeney of St. Louis, to build a dike the north to the Mobile and Chio Rathrond on the south between Bast St. Lonis and the bluffs for $190,000, was faid on the table on motion of Alderman Domhoff.

Prior to his motion, Mayor Cook stated that the proposition could not be considered by the Council for several reasons, principal among which was that the city had only $20,000 a year to spend for dike purposes, and that the protection was needed in front and not in the rear of the city. The top of the dike was to be used for railroad purposes.

Ordinances for the improvement of three Bast St. Louis streets were passed. The utreets are to be improved with brick and are to be sewered, so that the sewers will connect with the proposed outlet sewer.
